Black Obsidian. This is why Apache Tears will often protect the wearer from grief and sorrow. The Apache Tears will absorb the grief and release old hurts, and lifting the spirit. They allow you to forgive others without being bitter.

They have an uncanny ability to lend support during times of sorrow and because of this, many people turn to Apache Tears during times of grieving. They gently help you to accept and then release your grief, thereby releasing and removing blockages.

Made from the fire energy deep within the Earth, this mineral is wonderful at grounding energies into the Earth before, during and after energy work. In addition, they help to ground spiritual experiences into the physical, helping you to integrate these experiences into your everyday life. This grounding energy can also help you to realize the importance of all frequencies, and to not limit yourself to only the higher energies of this existence.

Astrological signs: Capricorn, Aries

Apache Tears helps you to see into the core of an issue to assist with deep healing.

Tears are a type of Obsidian, which appear rough and opaque at first glance, but are often translucent when held up to a light source (try it! It's pretty cool!) Apache Tears are created when hot lava is forced directly into the air and quickly solidifies before hitting the ground.

Apache Tears can help to relieve stress by bringing opportunities for positive change into your sights so that you can formulate a plan of action. This can bring a sense of hope to a dire circumstance.

Apache Tears received their name because it is said that grieving Apache women, who lost their loved ones in a raid, cried for a month and their tears fell to the ground, becoming a form of Logical thinking skills can be enhanced by Apache Tears, which can lead to new doors opening for success.

Some work with Apache Tears to facilitate spontaneity in many different areas in life.

Carry an Apache Tear in your pocket as protection from all types of negative energies, including psychic attacks. The Apache Tear will help to remove and transmute these energies, clearing the way for more positive vibrations.

Physically, Apache Tears are often used for the calming of muscle spasms, detoxification of the body, and absorption of vitamins. They can also enhance the immune system and fortify the body.

The EFMLS is Just a Click Away--Check it Out

"The Eastern Federation of Mineralogical and Lapidary Societies, Inc. was organized in the 1950s as a nonprofit to bring about a closer association of mineral societies devoted to the study of geology, minerals, earth sciences and the practice of lapidary arts and related crafts in the eastern portion of the United States."

Our club's insurance is through the EFMLS, which is a critical benefit for the club when visiting private mine locations.

The EFMLS hosts instructional workshops each year at Wild Acres Retreat in North Carolina. They hold an annual convention, that affiliates may send two voting members to. And, they maintain an extensive library of slide programs (which are being converted to JPEG) that are available for loan to affiliate clubs. 🖱️
